

Funeral Services For Late Tom Chapman

As reported in these columns last week, Delia and district were shocked at the sudden death of Thomas Chapman, who passed away during the early hours of Monday, March 16th, from a heart attack at his home in Delia.

Born in Surrey, England, March 10, 1877, deceased came to Canada in 1892, and took up ranching in the Lone Butte area. When war broke out in 1914 he answered his country's call, and served with the 50th Battalion overseas, and was promoted to the rank of sergeant. He distinguished himself by being awarded the "Distinguished Conduct Medal."

On returning to Canada in 1919, some years later married the late Sarah Crutcher, and took up veterinary work in the Lone Butte and Hanna districts, until retiring to Delia fifteen years ago.

The late Mr. Chapman leaves surviving one son, daughter-in-law and one grand-daughter, who reside in Calgary.

Funeral services were held from Delia United Church on Thursday afternoon, March 19, at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Wright of Hanna Anglican Church, officiating.

Hymns sung were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light." A full choir was in attendance.

Miss Lynne Deleew presided at the piano.

Mrs. A. Whitman sang a solo. "The Stranger of Galilee."

Palbearers were—Messrs. J. Lawrence, Bob Stevens, Bob Milne, Archie Melnick, Vere Kidston, and Matt Bira.

Interment took place in the Field of Honor, Delia Cemetery.

Whyte Funeral Home of Hanna, had charge of arrangements.

Wedding Bells Jeffries-Hall

The Delia United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding March 20 when Mrs. Minnie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hall of Delia, was united in matrimony with Robert E. Jeffries, youngest son of Mrs. C. Jeffries of Swift Current, with Rev. deLew officiating. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus," played by Lynne Deleew at the piano. The bride looked lovely in grey suit with white hat and accessories, wearing a corsage of pink rose buds. The bride was attended by her sister Evelyn as bridesmaid, who was dressed in a very becoming maize sheer, with white hat and accessories with corsage to match. The groom was attended by Bert Lewis, of Delia.

Mrs. Whitman rendered a solo, "In His House," during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a delightful reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, with 40 guests present. The young couple later entertained their many friends with a dinner at the Legion Hall. Mr. Neil Benton made a presentation of a purse to the young couple, expressing their congratulations on behalf of the citizens of Delia.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT Convertibility of Money

A great deal of talk is going on about the convertibility of the Pound Sterling. All agree that if only the Pound Sterling was convertible in to American dollars that Britain could do much more trade. But some are frightened that Britain does not have enough reserves in gold or American Dollars to support the Pound in case big demands were suddenly made upon her, and they consider that Britain had better wait until tariffs come down in the United States and Canada and other countries so that British trade can proceed.

The reply is that if we wait as long as that it will be generations before the Pound is convertible, and that during the interval the world will lose its faith in the Pound and will join the Dollar bloc. It is asserted that if Britain will only wait a chance to free the Pound that she would do so much more business the world over that countries like the United States and Canada would, then, in self-defence, be obliged to lower their tariffs; that Britain's prosperity in the past was built up because Britain and her merchants took chances, and that now is the time to take bold, reasoned chances again.

Random Notes

Whatever happens to the International Wheat Agreement in the long run, by the middle of last week, prospects for an amicable settlement looked far from rosy. As a matter of fact, it was reported that the Canadian delegates were drafted to return home at the end of the week without a settlement, if no better offer were made by the importing countries.

It's true that some narrowing down of the extreme views held by the opposing interests had taken place; the importers, who previously had suggested renewal at the old figure of $1.80, had advanced to a price of $1.95, while the extreme figure of $2.50, originally demanded by United States delegates, had shrunk to $2.15.

It may be reasonably expected that a final settlement will be made, and the implied threat by the Canadian delegates may be withdrawn as a move in the bargaining game, since a return to the old methods of wheat trading appears to be unthinkable to the organized producers, and probably also in government circles.

Of course, there remains a minority problem even among wheat producers; those stalwarts who, standing on their own feet, prefer a return to open market conditions.

Yet, from a long term viewpoint, there is much to be said for the international agreement.

It makes for stability in that the spreading of payments tends to cushion unfavorable harvest results. From the administrative standpoint, too, it is a distinct advantage; it requires a distinct accounting; acreages, quotas, etc. give to the government practically complete information of the most important source of prairie incomes. Presumably, it is this feature that arouses much of the minority opposition. Apparently, in this case, as in so many others, minority opinion can afford to be ignored.

Among critics in the brief smoggy last week, by the three prairie farm unions for consideration by the federal government was the government order which tied domestic wheat prices to the low world price of the international wheat agreement. Under this arrangement, it said, prairie farmers had subsidized Canadian consumers to the amount of $36,000,000 in the last two crop years.

It's questionable whether any action to vary this order will be taken by the government, also; this has been a standing grievance of organized producers for many years.

In matters of this kind, it's likely the administration takes the view common to many governments, that bread is a staple article of food for all the people—which includes those least able to purchase much of anything else. Another point could be that, under such circumstances, it would be bad policy to sell wheat to foreigners at a lower price than that sold for home consumption.

Ag. Club Course March 27 At Knox Will Give Instruction On Committee Work

The Committee Members "Workshop," a course designed to give clubs and organizations in the area an insight into community effort, will be held in the Knox United Church Hall on Friday, March 27th, under the auspices of the Drumheller District Agricultural Society and the University of Alberta. It was announced here at the week-end by Tom Kemping.

FARMER'S COLUMN

AN EXCELLENT IDEA

DISTRICT AGRICULTURIST Stan Paton at the week-end end graduates of the Rural Electrical Course here that he would make every possible effort to have the Department of Agriculture sponsor a course to help rural and smaller growers.

Paton, who pointed out that greater numbers of water works and sewage systems were being installed in farm homes, felt that the course would be important.

In a show-of-hands vote at the week-end, 10 graduates of the electrical course, sponsored here for the last two years, were in the majority. They were interested in the proposed course and would attend classes.

Paton, who assumed the post of district agriculturist in the Drumheller District about a year ago, stated that the recent Rural Electrical Course and the past several months had made many suggestions leading to greater service in the activities of the junior farmers club district.

In the promotion of the proposed water works and sewage systems Paton felt that the consent and backing of the department was important, and that local merchants would be interested in providing help for the course.

During the recent Rural Electrical course the Canadian Electrical Union, through District Manager B. S. Davidson, provided several important seminars, conducted the students on a tour of the local power plant and acted as hosts at the graduation banquet.

Back-Checking Pays Dividends

Back-checking means you and your teammates the average hockey player is not interested in scoring goals. A good point to keep in mind is that a hockey player is always a weak point for a coach to see. The greatest contribution to a team's success is by back-checking. It is by doing a good back-checking job that you can make to his team's success by being a good back-checking job.

The most important factor in the technique of back-checking is the quick count time. You should keep on stopping your feet and moving as quickly as possible so that you can catch back. Another important factor is your attitude toward back-checking. If you are inclined to think that it will not do any good even if you do fear it, because you are not far out of the play, you will not be pulling your weight in work effort. Your attitude should be, "As long as I'm playing, I'll go back as hard as I can." It is a good idea to keep your feet moving and your head up. You should be back-checking to take a rest for the next offensive play.

Often the momentary disappointment that a player feels at not scoring prevents him from back-checking. He is not to be discouraged. He should be back-checking to take a rest for the next offensive play.

Try to get between your man and the goal. If you cannot see your man, you are in a bad position. If you see what seems to be the danger zone, don't just cut in and out of the play, but with thought of what you are doing.

Conclusion, of course, is the prime factor and then accuracy. It is a good idea to keep your feet moving and your head up. You should be back-checking to take a rest for the next offensive play.
